

Mario Solano '25 is a 1L at Columbia Law School originally from Dallas, TX. Mario graduated from Texas Tech University with a degree in accounting. Prior to law school, Mario worked as staff accountant for three years. At Columbia, Mario is currently the 1L Representative, and the incoming President for the Latinx Law Student Association (LaLSA). In addition, Mario was part of the LaLSA Asylum and Refugee Law Moot Court team and is volunteering with the Office of Judicial Clerkships to host the reenactment of Mendez v. Westminster. This upcoming summer, Mario will be interning with Judge Ramos at the Southern District of New York. Mario is interested in different areas of the law but specifically immigration and white-collar crime. In his free time, Mario enjoys running, hanging out with his wife and two pugs, and Formula One.