

GRAND LARCENY IN THE FIRST DEGREE
(Deed Theft)
Penal Law § 155.42 (2)
(Committed on or after July 19, 2024)

---

NOTE: The definition of what constitutes larceny encompasses, and is limited to, the theories of larceny specified in subdivision two of Penal Law § 155.05. People v Foster, 73 NY2d 596 (1989). Those theories of larceny are imbedded in the definition of the term “wrongfully take, obtain, or withhold.” This instruction is limited to the theory of larceny by deed theft. Penal Law § 155.05(2)(g).

The (specify) count is Grand Larceny in the First Degree.

Under our law, a person is guilty of Grand Larceny in the First Degree when such person steals property and when such person commits deed theft of:

Select appropriate alternative:

residential real property that is occupied as a home by at least one person;

residential real property that involves a home that is owned by an [Select appropriate alternative(s): elderly person, an incompetent, or incapacitated person or physically disabled person];

three or more residential real properties;

regardless of the value.

A person STEALS PROPERTY and commits larceny when, with the intent to deprive another of property or to appropriate the same to himself or herself [or to a third person], such person wrongfully takes, obtains, or withholds such property from an owner of the property.<sup>1</sup>

The following terms used in that definition have a special meaning:

OWNER means a person having a right to possession of the property superior to that of the person who takes, obtains or withholds it.<sup>2</sup>

INTENT means a conscious objective or purpose. Thus, a person acts with INTENT TO DEPRIVE ANOTHER OF PROPERTY OR TO APPROPRIATE PROPERTY TO HIMSELF OR HERSELF [or to a third person] when such person's conscious objective or purpose is:

(1) to withhold the property or cause it to be withheld permanently,<sup>3</sup> or

(2) to exercise control over the property, [or to aid a third person to exercise control over it], permanently,<sup>4</sup> or

<sup>2</sup> See Penal Law § 155.00 (5). Also see that section for special definitions of “owner” to cover the situations (1) where the alleged owner obtained the property by theft, (2) where the alleged owner is a joint or common owner of the property, and (3) where the property is in the possession of the alleged owner but some other person has a security interest in the property.

<sup>3</sup> In the typical larceny, it should not be necessary to include the alternate statutory language which follows the word “permanently”; namely: “or for so extended a period or under such circumstances that the major portion of its economic value or benefit is lost to such person.”

(3) to dispose of the property either for the benefit of himself or herself [or a third person], or, under such circumstances as to render it unlikely that an owner will recover such property.<sup>5</sup>

RESIDENTIAL REAL PROPERTY [or any derivative word thereof] means real property that is used or occupied, or intended to be used or occupied, wholly or partly, as the home or residence of one or more persons, [including real property that is improved by a one-to-four family dwelling, or a residential unit in a building including units owned as condominiums or on a cooperative basis, used or occupied, or intended to be used or occupied, wholly or partly, as the home or residence of one or more persons], [but shall not refer to unimproved real property upon which such dwellings are to be constructed].<sup>6</sup>

not being able to care for their property and/or personal needs.<sup>9</sup>

ELDERLY PERSON means a person sixty years of age or older.<sup>10</sup>

A person WRONGFULLY TAKES, OBTAINS, OR WITHHOLDS PROPERTY from an owner when that person takes property without an owner's consent, and exercises dominion and control over that property for a period of time, however temporary, in a manner wholly inconsistent with the rights of the owner.<sup>11</sup>

A person also wrongfully takes, obtains, or withholds property from an owner, and commits larceny by deed theft, when such person:

<sup>12</sup> Forgery of a written instrument is defined to mean “a written instrument which has been falsely made, completed or altered.” Penal Law § 170.00(7). This larceny by deed theft definition contains the alternatives: “alters, falsifies...any written instrument.” If forgery of the written instrument is a separate charge, a cross-reference to that count may be appropriate.

with intent to defraud, misrepresents themselves as the owner or authorized representative of [residential or commercial] real property to induce others to rely on such false information in order to obtain ownership or possession of such real property; [or] with intent to defraud, takes, obtains, or transfers title or ownership of real property by fraud, misrepresentation, [forgery, larceny, false pretenses, false promise<sup>13</sup>], or any other fraudulent or deceptive practice.

Under this [last] definition of larceny by deed fraud, it is not necessary that the owner be in fact deprived of title or ownership of the commercial real property permanently or that the property be in fact appropriated permanently. It is sufficient that the actor wrongfully takes, obtains, or transfers title or ownership of real property by the stated fraudulent or deceptive practice for any period of time, however temporary.
